Alumni Day Set For June 3

Annual Wartburg Alumni day will be held on campus this year June 3, the day before commencement, Harry Petrat, director of public relations here, is program chairman for the day.

At 10 o'clock in Luther hall is Dr. Paul's parish hall for sections, honoring graduates of 1903, 1928, and 1943 are scheduled. The class of Dave Mennen will be in charge of the morning ceremony, during which the golden and twenty-year grads will be officially received into alumni group. Awards are to be presented to outstanding alumni at the ceremony.

Seniors Will Be Guests

Dr. Walter Siegert, one of the world's leading biochemists and a former Wartburg student, will be featured as main speaker on the morning program.

Golf will be the major diversion of the afternoon. Herb Engelbrecht, assistant to the president, and Alumni director, will announce on the Saturday course. An open-house social and coffee hour in the Wartburg hall lounge are also scheduled.

Barbecue To Be Held

In the evening, a barbecue prepared by Joe Jolly, internationally-known Iowa barber and barbecue king, will be held on North field for the entire student body, faculty and groups of students. In the event of rain it will be held in the cafeteria.

After the barbecue the Wartburg band, under the direction of Ernest Hagen, will present a light summer-music concert on the terrace of Luther hall.

Record Crowd Hears Weiblen

"What is the tale that you will tell?"

This was the challenging question which the Rev. W. H. Weiblen, assistant pastor of St. Paul's church, put to more than 200 bapacitors at the annual Junior-Senior affair last night in St. Paul's parish hall. Mr. Weiblen's address was delivered to the largest J-S banquet crowd in Wartburg history.

Using his speech on the theme of the banquet, "One Hundred and Two Knights," Mr. Weiblen a former air force chaplain, compared past students of Wartburg with present organizations. He showed that the 1953 students, the senior class, have a tradition of service to church and country so long as "Wartburg lasts."

Pointing out the moral foundations of our society have deepened, he declared, "All people should remember the quality they contribute their lives—they must not separate themselves from their faith.

"A Christian life gives us true happiness and success," he contended, while a sensual, pleasure-seeking life can offer no setting.

Mr. Weiblen illustrated his address with stories, with examples from his own experiences with the armed services and attempts at an easy-to-listen to voice, although his deep voice was sometimes halting and unsure.

Talk Appeals

As final speaker on the banquet program, Dr. Paul Wittenberg was presented by Gerry Hatter, senior class president, who called the talk "one of the most inspiring, spiritual and matter of course, practical talks we have had the honor in the speaker's spotlight."

Like Mr. Weiblen, Dr. Wittenberg, music class staff, Arnold High School, was a pleasant surprise. Ironically subtitled the movie "High Noon" while Dr. Wittenberg's talk "Arabian Nights" atmosphere was vivid, generated by the entire proceedings.

Following the outstanding aspect of the banquet was the novel and unique program, with all sections, also in the Arabian mood. Each section presented an act threaded through to the minutest detail, an adventure in Arabian nights with well and cockroach attendant in Arabian.

Youth Confab Slated Sun.

Chi Rho pre-theological society, will sponsor a youth rally tomorrow, 7:30 p.m. in the chapel, according to Esther Bell. The Rev. Paul Martin, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Clarksville, will be featured speaker.

"In case of rain, the service will be held in the Luther hall," Miss Bell, Fred Meyers, junior, and Clarence Ott said.

Included during the service by the Rev. Martin will be discussion on modern language, will be the presentation of the Chi Rho scholarship religious organizations—Ken Underhill, Fred Meyers, Ann Myers, Bergstresser, sophomore, Pitchey, Richard Jones, Ann Myers, Gene Mason Fellowship, and Lee Lashke, a member of the Theatre Guild.

Bringing Symphonic Style To Wartburg, New Orchestra Lends Classical Touch

By Jim Saxter

Symphonic music—the prized of masters—the coaring of a whistle, the bubble of the continuum. The peal of the organ and the crash of the cymbal combine to provide listening pleasure that has thrilled and lifted the world.

Those who enjoyed the Boston Pops and the Minneapolis Symphony here need no longer be entirely dependent on the Artist Series to bring them this particular brand of music in the form of a new and unheralded addition to the campus and community social life will soon be in order.

Next Sunday evening at 8 in the Knights gym a stimulating array of music of the masters will be assembled, seated in orchestral form. The house lights will dim and a conductor's baton in hand, will step to the podium. The downbeat and the Wartburg community symphony will come in for an apparent audience.

This unique and stimulating venture is the outcome received a preview of the group, then a small, intimate group of Wartburg students in its value and the enjoyment it offered. Due to the enthusiastic response of citizens of Waverly and nine surrounding communities plus that of Wartburg musicians, the orchestra has grown to a membership of 80, will able to handle the light symphonic selections in the form of a full orchestra.

Ernest Hagen, of the music department here, organizer and director of the orchestra, has undertaken capable of handling the challenge of symphonic music of the group. He has played in the State University of Iowa symphony, three in the Drake-Des Moines symphony, two in the Northwestern University symphony and 11 in the Waterloo community orchestra.

The three-fold purpose of the group, as stated by Hagen, is "to add to the cultural growth of the college and community, to provide relaxation and entertainment for business and professional people and to provide a training organization for student musicians."

"We feel that we're accomplishing these aims in a satisfactory manner," added Hagen. "I'm proud of the progress we've made and I'm very enthusiastic about the future."

Besides the 18 students in the orchestra, membership includes people from surrounding towns listed on the ranks are two physicians, a number of Waverly business and professional men, and many other contributions to community music life. Instruments in the group include violins, cellos, oboe, flutes, trumpets, French horns, trombones and a 225-year-old instrument being played by Russell W. Sohr of Charles City. Dr. B. J. Sullivan, Charles City M.D., owns a 225-year-old original Gallenus violin, probably the finest instrument in the orchestra.

New honors wires accorded the group recently when it was admitted to membership in the American Symphony league. The purpose of the organization, according to Hagen, is to foster continual cultural growth in the nation through the wide development of fine community orchestras.

Hagen stated that next Sunday's concert will realize that the Wartburg-Community orchestra is accomplishing these ends.

Annex To Move

Building committee here recently granted permission recently to move Annex I, women's housing unit, from its present location north of Wartburg hall to a college lot on the corner of 19th street and 9th avenue.

According to Pres. C. H. Becker, this will be the major campus change to take place during the summer.

Editor Writes Letter

OPEN LETTER TO EXPECTANT GRADUATES:

Dear expectant graduates:

The time is drawing near for you to delve deep into stock of standing cliches and prepare to kiss off college life for good. In turn the TRUMPET is taking an opportunity to bid you a fond adieu before tests and alumni arrive and we forget about you completely.

You seniors, although you're not Old Mains, have actually become permanent fixtures around this place, you know. People looked at you first and wondered whether this was your sixth or seventh year at Wartburg. You've all acquired some measure of public standing—in the form of either glory or notoriety.

And now you're leaving—leaving us, the underclassmen, your devoted public, behind. We are really attempting to climb to the heights you've already attained. On June 8 the fatal action will start. Ever since the senior association will pledge you in. Then the next . . . ah, the next day . . .

The stately strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" reach your tassel tickled ears while you're still far from the gym. The line moves painfully slow, and the sun is hot on the portable bridge table that's perched on your head. The speaker is good—extra good, but you're not really interested in him. You want exercise. You want to stretch your legs. You want to walk—with your hands in your pockets (a multitonsile phenomenon, to non-sports fans) and take off in the direction of the nearest exit.

Then the moment comes—up the stage, down the stage, flip the tassel—it's as easy as push-pull, click-click. But the actions are significant . . . for now you're a college graduate.

Yes, you'll be leaving us. But as the thought strikes you, we hope that (as they say) a lump rises in your throat, a lone tear forms a trickle on your cheek and your eyes cloud with nostalgic memories. But wait! There's still hope—Wartburg and you are not to be complete strangers. For now you are the constituency.

You might not think it of yourself now, but in a few years of your old friends in school are going to look at you with the eyes of a '49-er viewing a 10-pound nugget. And since you are constituency, your wallet WILL be stuffed.

So remember, the student dorm is yours, graduates-to-be . . .

Oh, well. Congratulations, anyway.

Beautifully yours,
The editor (pro tem)

Footnotes To Faith:

Prayer Is Difficult—But We Must Use It!

By Norm Melchert

Theologians are fond of saying, "Prayer is difficult but we must use it." This statement is, of course, ridiculous! Millions of people do.

There are some folks who claim that religion—that prayer, if you will—makes life easier. Also silly. It is much easier (and cheaper) not to bother about God.

Yet there is an amazing paradox. It is hard to fit prayer into life, but harder to live without prayer. Though it often is hard to find time or hard to get up the courage, life is easier.

Melchert

This statement and wonderful God to whom we pray are not the God we think we need. Prayer is not conformity to our desires. We have a privilege in prayer; we can be honest.

Let us pray with Peter Marshall, "Prayer is not changing God, prayer is a waste of time, and help us to see that without prayer our work is a waste of time."

POLITICAL INQUIRY

By Bob Kodres

Servicemen Must Adjust

Kodres

Three more weeks of hard work and off we'll go for our summer vacation. Next fall most of us will return again with tanned faces and stock-piled note books, drawers, and surplus-filled brains. Some of the more fortunate will probably be back in the same rooms, prepared to keep our military training, working smoothly.

Uncle Sam's family is a hot potato to anyone's college career, but many midwestern states and countries have found it necessary to do so. Consequently many familiar faces will be missing from campus next school year.

Many of our potential GIs have little or no worries at all about the next two years. They accept their stretch in the army as a necessary evil.

Although we may have planned to make a career in the armed forces, we should not take the same view of the army as a permanent institution. The attitude is changing both to the potential GI and the whole military organization.

It is true that we'll have to sacrifice round of our individuality. It is also true that the traditional "Army life, Army food, and pay" will be less to longer. Many letter gripe must be swallowed along with the grub which will be serve from the mess hall.

We shall become a small part of a huge machine. How well we fit into this machine will largely depend on ourselves. If we possess much ability which will be needed in the machine (officers), the odds count be proved down until they fit.

The sooner we give our maximum, the better it is for ourselves and for the machinery. Although it is not easy to become a smooth, or at a short engine, one must and should try to do his best.

Let's remember that the military machinery is to protect no one but ourselves. Let's also keep in mind that we are only a very small part of this machine. Rapid adjustment to such a life brings its own rewards.

One Sleepless Knight

By Sid Curtis

conduct at Wartburg is by bygone days. Some of the most hilarious examples occurred in the early years.

"Quiet hours shall be in effect daily from 7:30 p.m. until 8 a.m.; Get this play straight. Why, today you might as well be 24-hour quiet time as try to enforce that gaffe. Nowadays the boys don't START making noise until 10 p.m.

"The following shall be out of order during quiet hours: playing of musical instruments (cow horns, Fenner rhythm sticks, bull-roarers) through the halls, scuffling on (yet this) loud tile floors, and any other unusual hall noise." How many people would it take to enforce a rule like that today? No scuffling, huh? That's Greenman life's greatest sport. No loud talking. Dude ever said a word on the phone?

□—□—□

Students may not be off-campus after 11 p.m. Sunday to Thursday and not later than 12 a.m. on Friday and Saturday. Written permission has been obtained to leave the city.

Nowadays, this booklet was written for MEN, in this section. No wonder there used babied were in the old days. I can see it now. Mother's letter to her son Andrew: "Go go to Wartburg."

"It is recommended that students should retire by 11 p.m. with lights off by 12 p.m. If late leave or leave from the city is desired, permission must be obtained from the dormitory supervisor."

Oh, the poor guys back in them days—in bed by 11 p.m. Imagine trying to turn in at 11 these days with four-hour playing cards on your mattress, six with water pitchers and the old North Hall sorority, off ice on the pillow.

"Residents, unless attired conventionally in street clothing, shall wear bathrobes and slippers when passing through the halls."

Handbook still states that rule. Why, today the halls look like the lineup for an army physical.

What year was this comical handbook issued? 1952-53. Didn't realize what a bunch of lawbreakers you are, dudes, then? Bye for now . . . Sid

COMMONLY HEARD: from couple strolling toward the river: "I should study, but."

WARTBURG'S BUILDING PROCESS is really on its now. We break ground for a new girls' dorm and within a matter of weeks we've already got three new buildings. That's progress.

GUTTLY MONDAY'S CLASSES on Tuesday even had the faculty grumbling. One prof dismiss his class five minutes late and, finding only a single off-campus student, asked, "Where is everybody?"

"That's what I've been wondering, he replied. Maybe we're having two Gutties in a row."

FLASH! In case of a tornado, the proper place to hide toward the base in North field. Maybe we are all gonna use it of that place yet before August, 1954.

3 IIAC Contfabs Here Today—Track, Golf, Tennis

Dubuque Top Cinder Choice As 10 Schools Send Squads

By Rusty Kolberg

With Wartburg playing host for the first time in history, 10 Iowa conference teams including about 100 spikemen are competing on the Knight track today in the IIAC finals. Field event action starts at 1:30 pm., while the first gun for the running events will sound at 2.

Heavy favorite to walk away with the loop title for the third consecutive year will be the perennial cinder powerhouse, Dubuque university. The Spartans have a talented team of sprinters in Sarah Livingstone, Roy Ziegler, Bob Holmes and Ken Prentiss. Your Booster is a fan from way back when he sees the classic and broad jump. In addition to these stars, Dubuque has the receive depth to fight off the northern division champions, Luther.

Dubuque has 23 qualifiers, being without a starter in only the high hurdles. Given only a fair outside chance to win, Luther has 25 qualifiers but not the individual flash of the Spartan vets. Luther qualified in every event except the low hurdles.

Simpson is conceded third place honors with 17 qualifiers while Loras and Wartburg will do all right representatives will cut deep for fourth place.

Other competing schools—St. Ambrose, Central, Parsons, Iowa Wesleyan and Buena Vista—are figured to lag far behind in the point scoring.

Under suitable weather conditions, several records will possibly succumb today. Last week three of Luther's cinders cracked the 47.0 conference high jump mark, stretching it to 47.5.

Other marks available for the taking are the mark of Wilcox of Dubuque and Forsyth of Simpson have neared the record 120' 9½" for the pole vault, where Hans Schjelderup of Luther and Dungan French will duel in an effort to erase Schjelk's 1932 9.38.2 record. Also the mile and 440 relay are events in which a record could be turned in some dazzling performances.

A duel between Dubuque and Loras will possibly feature the mile-relay event. The defiling Spartan foursome has covered the distance in 3.26 this year, considerably faster than the 3.27.4 Buena Vista clocking 16 years ago.

"We'll be lucky if we place in a few events" is Coach and Meet Director Ax Bundgard's concise description of Wartburg's point prospects.

Wartburg qualifiers and their events are Rudy Grube, 100 and 220, Wayne Schaefer, 440; Al Baltrusch, pole vault; Ron Schoenrock, 220 low hurdles; Bob Adler, high jump; John Brones, javelin; Ken Swanson, discus, and the mile relay team.

Heinrich Gillow qualified last Saturday in the two-mile run. However, he crocked a bone in his foot on the first lap of the long stint and will be forced to watch the meet as a spectator on crutches today.

Batsmen Annex 2 Of 3 Tilts

Knight timbermen edged Luther, 6-4, at Decorah Tuesday, after splitting Hawkeye weiners road trip with Waverly and Buena Vista. The Knights lost to Waverly, 10-2, the Quakers rolling over Sackett, the Quintet lost to the Beavers, 8-5, under the Saturday sun.

After retiring to eight field in the early when Ron Schjelderup, to outside at Luther, John Kurtt relieved his reliever, Louis Westbrand in the ninth, to notch his fourth victory of the season.

After lacerating Westmar in a wild game Saturday afternoon, Wartburg sacked its fourth loss slip by a 10-2 rap on a single play in the bottom of the ninth involving three errors. Wartburg stacked out 11 Beavers as his mates failed him in the field.

Five Enter Teester Teams; Racquet Outfits Number 8

Iowa loop net and tee squads go into action this afternoon on the home courts as Waverly presses course to decide conference kings in golf and tennis. Five schools are represented in the club-and-pellet sport, while eight will take part in the racquet bout.

Wartburg and Loras will probably shoot out the golf title, with Luther, Simpson, Central and St. Ambrose completing the entry list. Your paper will represent each school, and team champ is to be decided by low-aggregate finish. Medals will go to the three low scorers.

Oppiemen Shaft Upper Iowa, 4-3, With 2 Hits; Tackle ISTC, Sumner Ind., Winona Next Week

By Fred Gunnerman

Although four contests remain on their slate, Knight diamonders closed their 1953 conference season with a 4-3 victory over Upper Iowa, 1-0 at the local home parks. Wartburg collected only two hits in the victory.

Next week the sticksmen will meet Iowa State Teachers here Tuesday, twice to the second day in Sumner, Iowa, for a doubleheader against Sumner Independents, and then on Thursday, Winona Teachers.

Lanky Leon Wettrand was credited with his third win of the season yesterday when he relieved starter Rudy Kurtt in the sixth. Kurtt pitched spoonily as he stranded 10 Peacocks on the pathe yielding seven hits and two solid runs in the first five innings.

Upper Iowa deserted 14 men on the sacks, collecting nine singles, two pairs of walks and three doubles errors but running out of luck in the home stretch as Kurtt and Wettrand fanned 10.

In the fourth inning the Knights turned a single into a double play as Kurtt walloped a towering circle clout to deep right field. Upper Iowa came up to bat in the sixth with a single and a pair of walks, but as pinch-hitter Chuck Schoenrock fell off with a wild and later came home on a throwing error after Kurtt had bit into a twin-killing.

WORKING UP FROM CUB

Lutz At End Of Trail

AS '52-'53 TRUMPET BOSS

By Rudy Kolbera

In the library? In his room? Only from 5 to 11 a.m. In the Den? Possibly. In the publications office? Most likely.

That's the usual routine of this year's blond, crew-cut TRUMPET editor, Charles Paul Lutz (customarily known as "Chuck," "Omar" or "More Pincolo").

Boss of all the TRUMPET staff members from Cub Crecks to page make-up, Chuck has made believers of reverent chores which go unnoticed to the average person who seems the weekly production. Constantly on the phone a week ahead, through around to a full-time longhand job in the publications office, Chuck is the boss.

Interviewed during an animated discussion around a ben table, summoned to high authorities for "more material for the sports sheet."

"It's great enjoyment I had was arguing over and defending reviews, page layouts and page proportions," said Lutz with a mischievous twinkle in his eyes.

Chuck lives for debate and argument, jumping at the opportunity to discuss any issue.

As Jerry Haver, double-cross co-author, sauntered up to the table, Lutz remarked, "Perhaps the most troublesome part of my week was trying to change some editorial efforts at humor. They seem to fall on love with every word they put on paper."

Haver Likes Heinecker

Haver shuffled off muttering, "I like Heinecker, I like Heinecker. Who is this Lutz character, anyway?"

Concerning Ted Heinecker, his managing editor, Lutz answered, "My biggest headache was keeping Heinecker away from the Little Theater and the dramatic production of a Brief, considering Heinecker should actually be a dramatic person. Ted was a great help in getting the magazine out on time, in the sports write the equipment year and acting as managing editor last year."

Regrets Dropping Chior

"My only regret this year," Lutz signed, "was my work's production's from participating in other activities, especially Wartburg Chorus. It was something I was sorry to drop."

With journalistic ink running through his veins, Chuck is going to continue in the publication field having accepted a position as assistant editor of the magazine, youth publication of three Lutheran bodies. The magazine's headquarters are at Columbus, Ohio, where Lutz will also attend Capital seminary.

Caught in a serious mood, Outgoing Editor Lutz is shown in his sanctum perfecting his student-faculty relations technique. Notice the firm resolution fully evading from his countenance. The brisk frown of his head and the high polish which he produces.

Lutz came through with a variety of biggest, hosts, greatest and worst's in response to queries regarding the 1952-53 TRUMPET, only one more issue of which the senior from Fontanelle will edit.

Remembering last year's editor and his former roommate, Bob Greenquist, Lutz said (modestly, of course), "The change in editorship was the biggest improvement in the TRUMPET this year."

Lutz claimed that some of the most exciting experiences of the year were the times that he was

The German club will hold early morning worship services as well as breakfast at the Maple grove on campus.

Trumpet Stock Goes Up; Cub Staff Grabs Reins

In an effort to raise the caliber of the newspaper, the TRUMPET this week has been placed in the hands of a greenhorn crew, constituting next year's staff. The editors' desks are cluttered with a different brand of cigarette butts and most of the senior writers have been kept in their cages.

In spite of popular demand, next week's paper will again fall into the clutches of the old regime, when Editor Lutz will attempt to rectify an entire year's work with his final issue.
